

Sonik Sports goes live

New tackle company Sonik Sports has just launched its website www.soniksports.com where you'll be able to not only see but also buy its products.

The company will initially target the carp and game markets before expanding into other areas, but for the carper it has introduced two new ranges of carp rods, the sk3 and sk4, the aim being to provide top quality gear at an affordable price.

"The Sonik brand is all about performance, features and value for money. Sonik products will meet these criteria as they look great, work faultlessly and are backed up by an unbeatable after-sales service," said Ian McCormack, commercial director. For the very first live test of these great value rods, get next month's UKCarp FREE with Angling Times.
